Reports falling outside of these categories may still be investigated at the DLP's discretion.

GENERAL STANDARDS AFFECTING LEVEL AND TYPE OF SERVICES OFFERED

Recognizing that the demand for DLP's assistance has historically outstripped our available resources, the following factors will be considered in determining the level and type of services which will be offered to a group or individual:

- (1) potential impact on the client (the individual with a disability).
- (2) merits of case (both factually and legally).
- (3) realistic alternate sources for referral and assistance [e.g., State agencies; other advocacy groups; Delaware Volunteer Legal Services ("DVLS"); private bar].
- (4) client's ability to self-advocate, or the ability of their parent/guardian/agent to advocate on their behalf;
- (5) whether the case will promote the independence, autonomy, and self-determination of the client, in the least restrictive setting; and
- (6) potential impact on other constituents or systems.

All of the above factors should be considered for each case being evaluated for services, with the last factor receiving additional weight in DLP's deliberations. All case acceptance is subject to limitation due to available staff resources at the time a request for services is made.

GENERAL STANDARDS AFFECTING LEVEL AND TYPE OF INVESTIGATIONS

The following factors will receive the highest priority for investigations:

- 1) Reports involving unexpected death or serious bodily harm,
- 2) Abuse, neglect and rights violations implicating a systemic concern that is relevant to current DLP program goals and objectives;
- 3) Incidents occurring within restrictive settings, such as facility based long-term care and psychiatric acute care settings.

Reports falling outside of these categories may still be investigated at the DLP's discretion and subject to available resources.
